Adams responds to Lisburn explosions

Responding to press queries this evening concerning the bomb explosions this evening at British Army Headquarters in Lisburn, Sinn Féin President Gerry Adams said:

"I cannot comment on who was responsible for this afternoons explosions at the British Army's headquarters at Lisburn. Obviously, it is very regrettable that people have been injured.

My commitment is to Sinn Féin's peace strategy and our party remains firmly focussed on the need to rebuild a proper peace process. Today's explosions emphasises the urgent need to fill the protracted and dangerous vacuum with a process of real and inclusive dialogue."
