JUDICIAL INQUIRY INTO BLOODY SUNDAY

I am advised that, in the expectation that the Inquiry will want to inspect Government papers on Bloody Sunday, it would be prudent now to assemble, secure and list such papers. Our Registry will undertake this task for the Cabinet Office and we have advised other Government Departments with an interest to do the same. I assume that relevant No.10 papers will already be included in Cabinet Office files, but if there are separate archives you might want to take similar action. Our Registry officials can help if needed.
