Prime Minister

Dear Tony

Thank you very much indeed for taking so much time to meet me when I was in London recently. I realise that you are very busy at all times, but that this particular day was a very difficult one for you. I am deeply appreciative, on a personal level, for the time that you gave to our discussion.

I mentioned two issues to you when we were talking. These are the problems arising from the abolition of duty free sales within the European Union, and the position of Irish emigrants in Britain. I promised to send you a short memorandum on both subjects and these are now enclosed.

With kindest regards.

Yours sincerely,

John Bruton TD
